

Academic Generalist Fellowship

Practice Transformation & Population Health

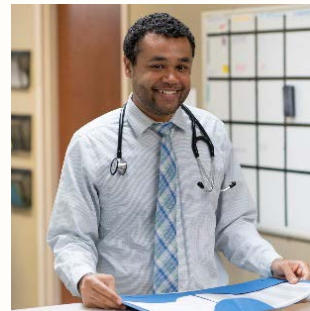

Two-year interdisciplinary program, with established record of excellence for over 20 years, located in Charleston, SC. Program includes training in research and educational methods, as well as professional development opportunities.

- Excel in primary-care oriented clinical research, teaching, and patient care.
- Research opportunities in practice-based networks, health information technology, health care disparities, telehealth, prevention.
- Obtain a Master of Public Health degree, which involves a structured curriculum and development of a grant proposal. Tuition is covered by grant funding.

For more information please visit:

<https://education.musc.edu/colleges/medicine/departments/pediatrics/fellowship/health-services>

Contact Carole Berini, Program Coordinator, with any questions, berini@musc.edu or 843-876-2926.

 MUSC Health
Medical University of South Carolina